

Take Your Data Security from Product to Practice

Many small and midsize businesses rely on a single product to protect data from threats and may add more products to fill in any gaps. This can put a business at risk and is a costly approach to data security, backup/recovery and management. While small and midsize businesses don't typically generate the same amount of data that larger enterprises do, they still need the same kind of data protection.

Advancing from product-based protection to a security practice brings solid, comprehensive protection to any size business. New Symantec™ Protection Suites are available in editions scaled to meet specific technology, budget and business requirements. Zones ExpertConnect™ security specialists will help you match your requirements today, with compatible upgrades and options to meet even specialized requirements in the future. And our software licensing executives assist with choosing your Symantec licensing and maintenance to ensure you receive the best possible pricing and return on your investment.

Backup and Recovery – Centrally manages backup, recovery and critical security tasks

- Centrally manage backup – The industry's first security suite with server backup and recovery for easy restore of entire systems without the need for manual and lengthy error prone processes.
- Recover Data, Desktops and Servers completely – Recover individual files and folders in seconds or complete Windows systems in minutes when problems happen, even to dissimilar hardware or virtual environments.
- Safeguard intellectual property – Secure sensitive data and valuable confidential information at the gateway with advanced content filtering and data loss prevention.

Business Continuity – Keeps mission critical systems running smoothly in case of disruption

- Maintain business uptime – Have confidence that your business will go uninterrupted by security and system problems, since your assets will be protected by proactive system protection, data protection and reliable, automated backup and recovery.
- Optimize performance – Free up server resources and increase performance by eliminating spam and e-mail threats before they reach your key messaging servers.

Easy Management – Provides simple management to help you scale

- Integrated endpoint security – Deploy unified endpoint security technologies with options that assure affordability today and scalability tomorrow.
- Simple implementation – Quickly deploy with minimal disruption to your environment through easy management, fast deployment single sign-on capabilities and optimized utilization of system resources.
- Central management – Simplify IT administration by centrally managing backup, recovery and critical security tasks across your entire organization.
