Corporate Data Protection with End User Privacy

Good Work integrates next-gen containerization, which protects all corporate data—including emails, business contacts, or documents—on corporate managed and BYOD devices. You can also prevent employees from opening files in unsecured apps, backing up business data to cloud-based services, or copying and pasting business content into consumer apps or personal email. Good Work separates your business data from employees' personal information and delivers consistent security across devices and OS versions.

Cloud Deployment with Lower TCO

Get the ease and control of managing enterprise mobility from the cloud for your Office 365 deployment, on-premises, or both. Whether you need core enterprise mobility management or more advanced capabilities, Good Work is available in a range of suites that fit your business.
