The Adobe Student and Teacher Licensing Program provides outstanding benefits to students, faculty, staff, and your institution. With student and teacher licensing, your institution can:

- Provide students with access to Adobe's industry-standard software, empowering them to express their creative ideas and preparing them for future success
- Offer outstanding value pricing on Adobe software
- Earn points toward Cumulative Licensing Program (CLP) discount levels
- Help reduce software piracy on campus

Provide students and teachers with essential Adobe tools at prices they can afford

The Adobe Student and Teacher Licensing Program allows higher education institutions in the United States and Canada to purchase discounted licenses on select Adobe software. Your institution can then redistribute or resell the software to students, faculty, and staff at affordable prices, all while earning points under your CLP agreement. Whether bundled into course fees or provided at your on-campus bookstore, the discounted software provides students, faculty, and staff up to 80% off commercial retail prices.

Signing up for the program is easy. With these three simple steps, your institution can receive deeply discounted prices on the latest Adobe software for your students, faculty, and staff.

1. Sign an Adobe CLP 5 Licensing Agreement.
2. Sign the Adobe Student and Teacher Licensing Addendum.
3. Determine how you will distribute Adobe software to your students, faculty, and staff.

Once enrolled, you are eligible to distribute the following Adobe products:
