

Adobe K-12 Student and Teacher Licensing Program

Amazingly low prices for students, teachers, and staff on Adobe creative software

What makes a K-12 school or district eligible to participate in the Adobe K-12 Student and Teacher Licensing Program?

To be eligible, a K-12 school or district must:

- Be located in the United States or Canada
- Have an existing Adobe Cumulative Licensing Program (CLP) 4.5 or 5.0 membership
- Sign the Adobe K-12 Student and Teacher Licensing Program Addendum

Who actually purchases the software?

An eligible student, teacher, or staff member at a qualifying K-12 school or district purchases the software for use on a personally owned computer. (Parents or other legal guardians may purchase the software for the student.) A school or district does not purchase or distribute software in the program.

May a student or teacher use Adobe K-12 Student and Teacher Licensing Program software for commercial purposes?

Yes. Students, teachers, and staff may use software purchased through the program for commercial purposes.

May a parent or guardian use software purchased through this program for commercial purposes?

No. Only students, teachers, and staff may use the software for commercial purposes.

Which individuals are eligible to purchase software at the highly reduced pricing in the Adobe K-12 Student and Teacher Licensing Program?

The following individuals may be eligible to purchase Adobe software at low pricing offered by the program:

- Students in grades 6-12 who are enrolled full time at qualifying schools or in qualifying districts
- Teachers who work at qualifying schools or in qualifying districts
- Administrative staff members and other personnel who work at qualifying schools or in qualifying districts

What software is available through the Adobe K-12 Student and Teacher Licensing Program, and at what price?
